Kotak Equity Savings Fund (KESF) has built a consistent track record of outperforming its category peers over the long term. Over the past seven years, its direct plan has delivered a compound annualised growth rate (CAGR) of 10.6 per cent, ahead of the category average of 9.6 per cent. Its sustained performance is also reflected in its bl.portfolio Star Track rating, where the fund has consistently featured in the 4-star or 5-star bracket since it was first rated.

Equity savings funds are suitable for investors with an investment horizon of at least three years who seek returns higher than those offered by traditional bank fixed deposits but are willing to assume a moderate level of risk.

SEBI mandates these funds to invest at least 65 per cent of their assets in equity and equity-related instruments, while maintaining net equity exposure (gross equity and equity-related holdings minus hedged exposure) between 15 per cent and 40 per cent. They must also allocate at least 10 per cent of their assets to debt instruments. By combining directional equity and arbitrage investments, these funds offer a relatively balanced risk-return profile and the benefit of equity-oriented taxation.

KESF follows a dynamic asset allocation strategy for its directional equity exposure. Directional equity refers to the fund's direct exposure to equities, where returns are driven by the market's direction. It uses an internally-developed model similar to the one employed by Kotak Balanced Advantage Fund. The model considers factors such as market valuations, prevailing interest rates, volatility and momentum to determine the appropriate level of directional equity exposure. It currently maintains around 34-35 per cent in directional equities.

EQUITY STRATEGY

In constructing its equity portfolio, the fund adopts a relatively-conservative approach, with a bias towards large-cap stocks to limit potential drawdowns.

The fund house follows a Business, Management and Valuation (BMV) framework to evaluate investment opportunities. This involves assessing the scalability and sustainability of a company's business model, the quality and governance standards of its management, and its treatment of minority shareholders.

Valuation discipline is another key consideration. The fund follows a Growth at a Reasonable Price (GARP) approach, seeking companies with healthy growth prospects without paying excessive valuations.

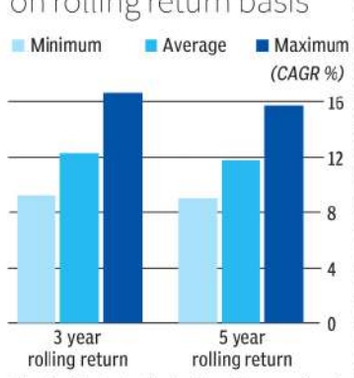

Although the fund has a large-cap bias, it does not completely avoid mid- and small-cap stocks. It selectively invests in these segments when attractive opportunities arise. As of October 2026, the portfolio had 44 per cent of overall assets in large-cap stocks, 17 per cent in mid-caps and 4 per cent in small-caps.

Sector allocation is guided by the fund manager's assessment of opportunities across the market. The fund currently favours banking, financial services and insurance (BFSI), consumer discretionary, telecom and power, while maintaining relatively-lower exposure to metals, chemicals, and oil and gas.

As of October 2026, its three largest sector exposures were banks, telecom and automobiles. Over the past year, the fund increased its allocation to fintech, construction and non-ferrous metals, while reducing exposure to metals, automobiles and IT software.

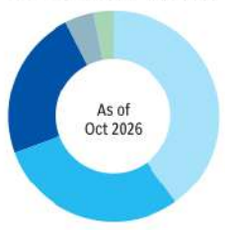

On the arbitrage front, the fund follows a stock-level arbitrage strategy rather than undertaking index arbitrage. This component complements the directional equity portfolio by generating relatively-predictable returns and helping moderate overall portfolio risk.

How the fund performed on rolling return basis

The chart illustrates the fund's performance based on 3-year and 5-year rolling returns calculated from the last seven years NAV history, highlighting the minimum, average, and maximum returns achieved over these periods.
Source: ACEMF Value as of Nov 12, 2026

Portfolio asset class break-up (%)

Unhedged Equity	40.0
Hedged Equity	29.5
Debt	23.0
InvITs	4.5
Cash & others	3.0

WHAT WORKS

- Large-cap bias limits downside risks
- Conservative debt portfolio prioritises stability
- Arbitrage exposure moderates portfolio risk

DEBT STRATEGY

The debt portfolio is managed conservatively, with an emphasis on capital preservation and predictable income generation rather than aggressive interest-rate or credit calls. The fund avoids taking significant credit risk and largely invests in sovereign and AAA-rated securities. Its current portfolio includes 1 per cent in government securities, 9 per cent in AAA-rated assets and 1.7 per cent in AA-rated instruments.

The fund also avoids taking aggressive duration bets, preferring to maintain a low-to-medium duration profile. Its objective is to generate returns primarily through coupon income and carry rather than frequent trading or attempts to benefit from short-term movements in bond prices. The portfolio's Macaulay duration has remained within a relatively narrow range of 0.4-2.4 years over the past three years.

The fund has allocations of 1.4 per cent to Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs) and 6.6 per cent to Infrastructure Investment Trusts (InvITs). These investments provide additional income diversification and access to relatively attractive yields.

As of October 2026, the debt portfolio's yield to maturity (YTM) stood at 7.9 per cent, higher than the category average of 7.1 per cent.

PERFORMANCE

On a five-year rolling-return basis, calculated over the past seven years, the fund delivered an average annualised return of 11.8 per cent, compared with 10.4 per cent for the category. During this period, its five-year rolling returns ranged between 9 per cent and 15.7 per cent.

The fund also outperformed on a three-year rolling-return basis, delivering an average CAGR of 12.3 per cent against 10.6 per cent for the category.

The regular plan carries an expense ratio of 1.46 per cent, marginally lower than the category average of 1.48 per cent. The direct plan's expense ratio stands at 0.57 per cent, compared with 0.63 per cent for the category.

Thus, investors looking to move beyond FDs without taking on the full volatility of equity funds can consider KESF. It can serve as a middle ground between debt and pure equity investments in a diversified portfolio.

Soaring yields to hurt bond investors

GLOBAL VIEW. Persistent inflation and hawkish Fed signals raise prospects of further interest-rate hikes

Bloomberg

RATE REPRICING

Markets now anticipate over 80 basis points of tightening, against under 50 last week

Just when global bond investors were starting to believe the worst of this year's selloff was over, surging Treasury yields are making them think again.

The forces roiling the world's biggest debt markets show little sign of fading, as stubborn inflation and hawkish Federal Reserve rhetoric have traders bracing for more interest-rate hikes. That pushed yields up across tenors, though it was front-end rates which saw the most dramatic repricing. The two-year US yield was up 35 basis points for the week, the most in more than two years, and earlier flirted with its largest jump since June 2022.

Back then, the annual increase in US consumer prices had just hit 9 per cent, a surge which forced the Fed into rapidly hiking its key rate from near-zero levels and which delivered historic losses on bondholders. While the fact rates are already elevated means the market should be less vulnerable to such large drawdowns this time, the pace of this week's repricing shows how quickly things can change.

"This is a tougher environment than during the Covid pandemic and the global financial crisis," said Kellie Wood, a Sydney-based money manager at Schroders Plc, who is currently short Treasuries. "Those were big directional moves — today it's about rolling supply shocks and wild rates volatility. We still have to be on alert for higher yields all the way till year-end."

It's a U-turn from just a week ago, when a Democratic sweep in the US midterm elections and jitters over AI investment sustainability sent investors flocking to Treasuries for safety. That rush of bullish positioning has since been upended, after Fed Governor Christopher Waller backed a rate increase and said he'd favour a half-point hike if inflation keeps accelerating.

CONSUMER PRICES DATA

That was hours before October consumer prices data confirmed Waller's fears, showing bigger increases than economists had estimated. Dallas Fed President Lorie Logan subsequently said a more rapid pace of rate increases might be called for next year, while Fed Bank of Chicago President Austan Goolsbee called it "another distressing report, borderline disturbing."

The losses slowed on Friday as US two-year yields edged lower, buoyed by October producer price index data that showed a smaller overall increase than estimated.

Still, other tenors rose to fresh multi-week highs. The 10-year rose about two basis points to 5.14 per cent, extending its weekly increase to nearly 30 basis points. Other Fed officials late Thursday and Friday have echoed the sentiment that more action against inflation is warranted, including New York Fed President John Williams and Boston Fed President Susan Collins.

REVISED FORECASTS

Accordingly, traders have ramped up wagers on Fed rate hikes, and several US bond dealers have revised their forecasts for Fed policy in anticipation of more tightening. For example, TD Securities, on Friday, added a January hike to its forecast, which previously anticipated moves in December and March.

Swap contracts linked to rate decision dates fully price in a quarter-point increase and an outside chance of a half-point move on Dec. 9. The contracts price in more than 80 basis points of cumulative tightening over the coming year. As recently as last week, fewer than 50 basis points were priced in.

The pressure is rippling through global markets, with Treasuries setting the benchmark for borrowing costs worldwide. A Bloomberg gauge of returns on Treasuries is sliding again after the latest surge in yields, reversing a recovery that had pared its loss this year to 1 per cent.

"The selloff of developed-market sovereign bonds is far from over," said Tracy Chen, a portfolio manager at Brandywine Global Investment Management, adding that the main drivers are still going strong. "The next target level for 10-year should head toward 5.5 per cent and then probably consolidate again."

For some investors, the rise in yields is creating an opportunity. George Bouboura at hedge fund K2 Asset Management sees 10-year Treasuries as attractive at around 5.3 per cent, saying the recent rally wasn't a false start. "We're buyers of it at 5.3 per cent, and we'll be buyers of that until it pops to the new level."

ALERTS.

SEBI eases KYC rules for NRIs

Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) has relaxed Know Your Client (KYC) requirements for individuals residing outside India, allowing them to complete digital onboarding without being physically present in the country.

The revised framework, effective December 3, 2026, covers Non-Resident Indians (NRIs), Overseas Citizens of India (OCIs) and foreign nationals residing in countries compliant with Financial Action Task Force (FATF) standards.

Under the new rules, intermediaries can accept KYC forms and supporting documents digitally. Clients can also undergo Video In-Person Verification (VIPV), subject to prescribed safeguards, including live geotagging, identity verification and the presence of an authorised official.

SEBI has also allowed intermediaries to rely on existing KYC records maintained by KYC Registration Agencies (KRAs) or the Central KYC Records Registry. Additional information need only be sought under specified circumstances, including changes in existing records or incomplete documentation. KYC records will remain portable across intermediaries, irrespective of whether every individual attribute has been validated.

Intermediaries must submit completed KYC information to KRAs within three working days. Existing KYC requirements will continue for clients residing in FATF non-compliant countries. The circular also permits verification through DigiLocker documents, Aadhaar-based authentication or certified document copies. Intermediaries must accept Indian or international mobile numbers and verify clients' email addresses through prescribed mechanisms.
