ACCORD ON LETHAL AUTONOMOUS WEAPONS

UN talks on killer AI weapons stall

Nations agree to extend dialogue for 2 more years

ASSOCIATED PRESS
Geneva, November 21

EFFORTS TO SET firm rules on AI-powered killer robots and drones ran aground Saturday as UN-backed talks in Geneva produced a softened agreement to extend discussions for two more years.

Scores of countries ended the week-long UN conference on weapons by agreeing to "elaborate" a possible accord on such lethal autonomous weapons systems by 2028. But they didn't commit to binding rules sought by UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres, many countries, and activists. The outcome underscored the difficulty of achieving concrete results in diplomacy amid global conflicts and major military powers jockeying for dominance.

Izumi Nakamitsu, the UN high representative for disarmament affairs, hailed a "significant achievement" but acknowledged a "glass half full or half empty" scenario, citing Guterres' hopes for a legally binding deal this year. Activists accused military powers like Russia and the United States of blocking stronger language.

Stop Killer Robots lamented a "watered-down mandate," and Beatrice Fihn, founder of international law advocacy group Lex International, said the decision amounts to "pushing the can down the road for two more years." They noted most countries supported work toward a new treaty, and Max Tegmark, a machine learning specialist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) and founder of the Future of Life Institute, said: "States have agreed it is sufficient to just talk about the issue, for the 14th year, while these weapons enable atrocities."

Before the meeting, seven countries proposed launching negotiations on a rulebook that could prevent or limit the ability of machines to kill without human control or accountability. That effort fell short.

"Technology is moving faster than diplomacy," said Ambassador Frederico Meyer of Brazil, which joined Austria, Belgium, Ireland, Mexico, New Zealand and Panama in proposing such negotiations.

WEAK EFFORTS

- Countries agreed to work towards a possible accord on these AI weapons systems by 2028, but stopped short of committing to binding rules
- The outcome exposed divisions among military powers, with activists accusing Russia and the US

COP31 talks risk failure

COP31 CLIMATE SUMMIT will either produce a good deal or no deal at all, the EU's top climate official said on Saturday as talks stretched deep into overtime. Negotiators from nearly 200 countries are struggling to bridge divisions over fossil fuels and climate finance, delaying an agreement at the two-week conference.

"It's either going to be a good deal or it's going to be no deal," said EU Climate Commissioner Wopke Hoekstra. The last major breakdown in UN climate talks came in 2009, when countries failed to adopt the Copenhagen Accord by consensus in a setback. Reuters

Off-season emerging as prime time to pack bags

Affordability, climate driving Oct, Mar travel

SUGANDHA MUKHERJEE
New Delhi, November 21

INDIAN TRAVELLERS ARE increasingly redrawing the international holiday calendar, with off-season travel emerging as the new sweet spot for overseas vacations as climate change, flexible work schedules and lower travel costs push holidays beyond the traditional summer rush. October has become one of the country's busiest outbound months, with overseas departures rising from 21.45 lakh in 2019 to 27.34 lakh in 2025, reflecting a steady expansion of travel beyond the May-June vacation period.

Government data shows 18.34 lakh Indians travelled overseas in March 2026, 16.6% higher than pre-pandemic March 2019 levels, although lower than the record 24.98 lakh departures in March 2025 and 24.57 lakh in March 2024.

The shift mirrors a broader global trend. According to the Australian Bureau of Statistics, short-term visitor arrivals rose 7.6% year-on-year in March 2026, while arrivals increased 9.3% in October 2025 and 19.5% in November 2025, pointing to stronger shoulder-season travel. Japan, another destination benefiting from spring tourism, welcomed 36.2 lakh international visitors in March 2026, up from 35 lakh a year earlier, as per Japan Tourism Statistics.

According to Booking.com Travel & Sustainability Report 2026, 43% of travellers plan to avoid crowds, 42% plan to travel out of season and 25% plan to visit cooler destinations. EaseMyTrip has also recorded nearly double-digit year-on-year growth in bookings during March and October over the past two to three years. "Shoulder-season months are steadily gaining traction as Indian travellers increasingly prioritise value, flexibility and overall travel experience over traditional holiday calendars," said Rikant Pittie, CEO and co-founder of EaseMyTrip.

For travel industry veterans, however, the shift is driven as much by economics as by changing lifestyles. "October and March have seen a definite rise in bookings for outbound travel," said Abbas Moiz, president of the Travel Agents Federation of India and board member of FAITH. According to Moiz, once schools reopen across Europe and North America after mid-September, leisure demand softens, resulting in lower hotel tariffs and airfares.

A NEW PEAK

- October recorded overseas departures rising from 21.45 lakh in 2019 to 27.34 lakh in 2025

18.34 lakh

Indians travelled overseas in March 2026, 16.6% higher than pre-pandemic March 2019 levels

- Online travel companies say the behavioural shift has accelerated over the past two to three years

At the same time, India's inbound tourism season boosts outbound seat availability, making international travel more affordable. "Airfares and hotel rates become more reasonable, offering better value for travellers. This value lasts till at least November and in some cases even till December," he said. EaseMyTrip said demand for short-haul leisure trips has increased by more than 30% year-on-year, as professionals increasingly convert long weekends into mini vacations.

"The last two years have been anything but predictable for travel. Geopolitical developments, especially in West Asia, disrupted key corridors. Yet Indian travellers didn't postpone; they adapted," said Pallavi Saxena, chief marketing and revenue officer, Cleartrip. According to Saxena, destinations such as Indonesia, Vietnam, Singapore, the Philippines, Sri Lanka, Japan and Nepal have emerged as major beneficiaries because they offer strong value, reliable connectivity and compelling experiences. Government data reflects that diversification. In March 2026, Thailand received 1.88 lakh Indian visitors, up from 1.66 lakh a year earlier. Arrivals to Vietnam jumped to 75,000 from 46,000, while Australia attracted 64,000 Indians, up from 61,000. Europe, however, remains firmly on Indian travellers' wish lists. "There is growing interest in Central Asia, South Africa and other long-haul destinations like Australia, New Zealand and South America," said Moiz.

Yatra Online is seeing similar trends. "We have observed a gradual increase in travel demand during March and October over the last few years compared with traditional summer and festive peaks," said Bharati Malik, senior vice-president, air and hotel business, Yatra Online.

Anthropic employee claims to have solved maths Holy Grail using Claude

ASSOCIATED PRESS
Washington, November 21

AMATHEMATICIAN WHO works for artificial intelligence giant Anthropic claims he has solved a Holy Grail of math problems with the help of the company's AI tool Claude.

It marks the second time in recent months that an AI company or someone linked to one claims to have cracked a famed unsolved math problem. Levent Alpoge, a member of the company's technical staff, made the announcement Friday by way of a four-page explanation posted on his website. He said that he believes by working with Claude, he has found a proof of the Riemann Hypothesis. "Claude and I have had a great time together with such breadth in recent months, but this time Claude far outpaced me near the finish line," Alpoge wrote.

Formulated in 1859, the Riemann Hypothesis centers on the distribution of prime numbers - those that are only divisible by one and themselves - as they grow towards infinity. Alpoge said he messaged Anthropic CEO Dario Amodei to ask about "my ability to announce," as the company was about to make major news with its stock market debut. A day after the company's IPO - the most valuable in history - Alpoge revealed he'd solved the problem that has proved elusive for over 150 years. Alpoge released his and Claude's proof of the Riemann Hypothesis within 17 million lines of Lean code, a programming language that allows people to programme proofs of mathematical theorems.
